MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF
MOTION TO STRIKE
AND ENJOIN NON-
PARTY FILINGS

Plaintiff, Jason Goodman, (“Goodman”) by and for himself pro se, pursuant to FRCP Rule 12(f)(2), respectfully submits this motion to strike the impertinent, scurrilous filing made by non-party David George Sweigert (“Sweigert”) and to enjoin Sweigert from making any further filings in this matter for the reasons set forth below:

INTRODUCTION

1. Sweigert is not a party to this case and, to the best of Goodman’s knowledge, was not present anywhere in New York State at the time of the incident that gave rise to this action. Sweigert is a pathological vexatious litigant who has been involved in nearly two dozen frivolous legal actions against Goodman since 2017. Sweigert has publicly declared his intentions to sue Goodman “for the rest of his life” and has spent the last six and half years demonstrating his will to do it. Searching Pacer.gov yields nineteen results for “Sweigert v Goodman” and three for

Sweigert v some version of Multimedia System Design Inc. This does not include cases in which Sweigert attempted intervention and was denied in all instances. (See Steele et al v Goodman et al Case 3:17-cv-00601-MHL Dkt. 153, Steele et al v Goodman Case 1:20-cv-01140-RDA-IDD Dkt. 8, THE NATIONAL ACADEMY OF TELEVISION ARTS AND SCIENCES, INC. and ACADEMY OF TELEVISION ARTS & SCIENCES v MULTIMEDIA SYSTEM DESIGN, INC. d/b/a "CROWDSOURCE THE TRUTH, Case 1:20-cv-07269-VEC-OTW Dkt. 98)

2. Sweigert is currently involved in unrelated litigation against Goodman, (See Sweigert v Goodman et al Case 1:23-cv-06881-JGK-VF). On November 7, 2023, a motion for sanctions pursuant to FRCP Rule 11 was filed against Sweigert in that case. (EXHIBIT A)

3. On information and belief, Goodman alleges Sweigert made his malicious and false filing in this case as retribution for Goodman filing a legitimate Rule 11 motion against him in the unrelated matter. Even before the defendants have been served, Sweigert is brazenly demonstrating his willingness to disrupt these proceedings and unnecessarily clog the docket with scurrilous filings, replete with false claims.

4. Sweigert has a robust history of interfering in every aspect of Goodman's professional and personal life. In previous litigation, Sweigert harassed an attorney Goodman retained to represent the corporate defendant. This persistent, inappropriate harassment was the cause cited by the attorney for his withdrawal. (See THE NATIONAL ACADEMY OF TELEVISION ARTS AND SCIENCES, INC. and ACADEMY OF TELEVISION ARTS & SCIENCES v MULTIMEDIA SYSTEM DESIGN, INC. d/b/a "CROWDSOURCE THE TRUTH, Case 1:20-cv-07269-VEC-OTW Document 102-2)

5. Since the inception of THE NATIONAL ACADEMY OF TELEVISION ARTS AND SCIENCES, INC. and ACADEMY OF TELEVISION ARTS & SCIENCES v MULTIMEDIA

SYSTEM DESIGN, INC. d/b/a "CROWDSOURCE THE TRUTH, Goodman has alleged Sweigert was the progenitor of the case and that it was brought about expressly to harass Goodman and burden him with the costs of litigation. Throughout that case, Sweigert agitated Goodman with harassing, at times daily emails, including innumerable irrelevant communications with all other litigants and even at times, the judge.

6. Judge Caproni's order attached to Sweigert's spurious filing is not a pre-filing order as Sweigert deceptively declares it to be. Judge Caproni does not use the phrase "pre-filing" anywhere in the order, nor does she instruct non-party Sweigert to attempt to wrongfully enforce the order. Legal definitions of the term "pre-filing order" as published on-line and observed by Goodman all referenced specific injunctions requiring a movant to seek leave of the Court before entering a filing. Judge Caproni's order contains no such requirement and does not enjoin Goodman or attempt to restrict him from filing after February 2022, it merely requires reporting. There is nothing to suggest judge Caproni's order is a pre-filing order or injunction against filing. To wit, the order lacks specificity regarding Goodman's time to file except for annual notifications to Judge Caproni. By the letter of the order, Goodman could have waited until February 21, 2024 to inform this Court, the defendants and Judge Caproni, and Goodman would still be in strict compliance. A reasonable observer might consider this interpretation of the order disingenuous. Judge Caproni's specific instruction in this regard was, "to notify all other Courts in which he litigates and all other parties against whom or with." Addressing "all parties" might cause a reasonable observer to presume providing notification once Defendants have been served, or within one week of initial filing, might be a reasonable time frame. Here, Sweigert has rushed to inform the Court even before Goodman hired a process server. The ink was barely dry on the complaint as it were, but Sweigert was anxious to inform Judge Caproni.

7. Sweigert's motion was filed with the specific intention of provoking a ruling of contempt against Goodman and the anticipation of severe punishment. This is demonstrated by Sweigert's simultaneous filing to notify Judge Caproni. (EXHIBIT B)

8. Sweigert has no defensible right and no interest in this matter apart from causing delay, increasing cost and subjecting Goodman to undue burden while wasting judicial resources.

RELIEF SOUGHT

9. Sweigert's motion should be stricken from the record so that Goodman may properly enter the filing once the defendants have been served or prior, upon further instruction or order from this Court, and in full compliance with judge Caproni's original order. To avoid duplicate filing, Goodman awaits further instructions from the Court in this regard.

10. Sweigert should be enjoined from making any further filings in this action because he is a non-party with no interest in this matter and no rights to defend in this action.

11. Sweigert should be declared a vexatious litigant and enjoined from making any further filings against Goodman or any business owned by Goodman in any District Court without first seeking leave of this Court. In Muka v Hancock, the court found, "[a]lthough access to the courts is one of the cherished freedoms of the system of government, there comes a point when limits should be imposed. While the judiciary should grant great latitude to a pro se litigant, it cannot turn its back to the rights of others. When it becomes clear that the courts are being used as a vehicle of harassment by a knowledgeable and articulate experienced pro se litigant the issuance of an injunction is warranted. The interests to be fostered by prohibiting the type of pro se litigations are significant. Such suits subject innocent parties to the expense and effort of mounting a defense, are a drain on already sparse judicial resources and unnecessarily deplete public funds."

Muka v. Hancock, Estabrook, Ryan, Shove & Hust, 120 Misc. 2d 146, 146, 465 N.Y.S.2d 416, 416 (Sup. Ct. 1983)

The Second Circuit has agreed with the sentiment of lower Courts finding, "sanctions may be particularly appropriate when the offending party, although proceeding pro se, has demonstrated . . . competence in finding and understanding the applicable law." Smith v. Educ. People, Inc., 233 F.R.D. 137 (S.D.N.Y. 2005). See also [*36] Cornett v. Bank of New York, No. 91 Civ. 0605 (CSH), 1992 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 5140, 1992 WL 88197, *6 (S.D.N.Y. Apr. 17, 1992) (finding plaintiff who "has shown an ability to find the law and to make legal arguments . . . may be held to a somewhat higher standard than other pro se parties").

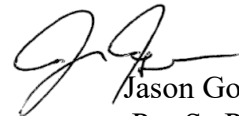

Bletas v. Deluca, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 133132, at *35-36 (S.D.N.Y. Nov. 14, 2011)

CONCLUSION

For the reasons stated herein and any other reasons determined by the Court, Sweigert's malicious and dishonest motion should be stricken from the record. Sweigert should be declared a vexatious litigant and enjoined from making any further filings in this or other matters related to Goodman without first seeking leave of the Court, and further, any other appropriate relief as determined by the Court.

DEFENDANT’S MEMORANDUM OF LAW IN SUPPORT of SANCTIONS
PURSUANT TO FRCP RULE 11

INTRODUCTION

Defendant Jason Goodman (“Goodman”) by and for himself pro se, respectfully submits this memorandum of law in support of his motion for sanctions, pursuant to FRCP Rule 11 and this Court’s inherent power, against Plaintiff David George Sweigert (“Sweigert”) for violations of Rule 11 including, inter alia, intentionally presenting pleadings for an improper purpose to harass, cause unnecessary delay, and increase the cost of litigation as explained in detail below.

Sweigert initiated a campaign of sham litigation against defendant Jason Goodman (“Goodman”) that began in 2017. Despite having never met and having no previous interactions or business relations, Sweigert endeavors to prove that Goodman is a conspiracy theorist who planned a bomb hoax to build YouTube viewership, among other things. Goodman alleges these actions are calculated to counteract journalism which reveals unfavorable facts about Sweigert, who has weaponized the Court, abusing judicial resources in a practice known as (“Lawfare”).

FRCP RULE 11- 1

BACKGROUND

In September 2017, non-party Robert David Steele (“RDS”) brought a defamation action against Goodman (See Case 3:17-cv-00601-MHL Steele v Goodman et al). Shortly after that, Sweigert moved to intervene (See Case 3:17-cv-00601-MHL ECF No. 73). George Webb Sweigert (“Webb”), the brother of Plaintiff Sweigert had introduced Goodman to RDS over the phone only three months prior. On June 13, 2017, Webb called in to Goodman’s talk show (“Crowdsource the Truth”) and cohosted an interview with RDS. The next day, Webb called in again with allegations of illicit radioactive material aboard a cargo ship approaching the Port of Charleston in South Carolina. Webb persisted in emphasizing the risk of the vessel becoming a “dirty bomb”. Webb’s call resulted in the FBI closing the Port and made national news, (<https://money.cnn.com/2017/06/16/media/port-of-charleston-dirty-bomb-conspiracy-theory-shutdown/index.html>). Webb was arrested hours later, questioned by FBI and released on bail.

After a multitude of filings, Sweigert’s motion to intervene in Steele v Goodman was denied (See Case 3:17-cv-00601-MHL ECF No. 153). This attempted intervention was only one prong of the Lawfare attack. Sweigert also brought action in South Carolina on June 14, 2018, publicly declared it a celebration of the one-year anniversary of the incident, (See Case 1:18-cv-08653-VEC-SDA ECF No. 1). That docket swelled to more than three-hundred-eighty entries after the case was transferred to SDNY and went on for more than three years. On the eve of trial, and without explanation, Sweigert voluntarily withdrew. When Judge Valerie Caproni ordered the complaint dismissed with prejudice, Sweigert moved for reconsideration, so that he might preserve his ability to torment Goodman with the same claims in future frivolous action, (See Case 1:18-cv-08653-VEC-SDA ECF No. 383). Sweigert now renews these dismissed claims, despite being ordered not to. Sweigert has publicly declared his intent to sue Goodman for the rest of his life, essentially announcing plans to perpetually violate Rule 11. This case is yet another demonstration of his intent to do it. In this instant action, Sweigert renews frivolous claims that have already been dismissed with prejudice while he attempts to manufacture new ones in his obsessive effort to maintain a constant barrage of punitive legal actions against Goodman irrespective of the outcome of any individual case. Sweigert's actions inherently violate FRCP Rule 11 and he should be sanctioned. It is within the scope of the Court's inherent power to enjoin him from continuing. Failure to enjoin Sweigert from this ongoing vexatious behavior signals tacit approval of the abuses and inherently undermines the Court's authority. Sweigert must not be allowed to continue and should be sanctioned pursuant to FRCP Rule 11.

ARGUMENT

I. SANCTIONS ARE APPROPRIATE UNDER RULE 11 AND THIS COURT'S INHERENT AUTHORITY

All parties, including those proceeding pro se, are bound by Rule 11. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 11 advisory committee notes (1993) ("The rule retains the principle that attorneys and pro se litigants have an obligation to the court to refrain from conduct that frustrates the aims of Rule 11."). An attorney's signature on a pleading certifies that:

- (1) it is not being presented for any improper purpose, such as to harass, cause unnecessary delay, or needlessly increase the cost of litigation;
- (2) the claims, defenses, and other legal contentions are warranted by existing law or by a nonfrivolous argument for extending, modifying, or reversing existing law or for

1 establishing new law;

2 (3) the factual contentions have evidentiary support or, if specifically, so
3 identified, will likely have evidentiary support after a reasonable opportunity for 4 further investigation or discovery;

5 (4) the denials of factual contentions are warranted on the evidence or, if 6 specifically, so identified, are reasonably based on belief or a lack of information.

8 Rule 11(b)(1). Plaintiff Sweigert has engaged in a campaign of sham litigation calculated 9 to harass Goodman since 2017. In another case Sweigert inappropriately insinuated himself into,
10 (See Goodman v Bouzy Case 1:21-cv-10878-AT-JLC ECF No. 14), Magistrate James L. Cott's 11 Order Report and Recommendation stated, "2Given its length, the amended complaint should be 12 dismissed as a threshold matter for failure to comply with Rule 8(a) of the Federal Rules of Civil 13 Procedure, which 'places an obligation upon the [plaintiff] to submit 'a short and plain 14 statement of the claim,' not a . . . long conspiracy theory novel.'" Gaboury v. Town of Roxbury,
15 *No. 98-CV-1753 (TJM), 1999 WL 244829, at 4 (N.D.N.Y. Apr. 19, 1999) (citation omitted)."

19 In this matter, Sweigert's two, fifty-one-page filings each exceed the length of 20 Goodman's complaint by nine pages. Surely Magistrate Judge Cott's determination that a forty-
21 two-page filing should be dismissed sua sponte for violating rule 8(a) would also apply here.
22 Sweigert eventually became a defendant in that case and was aware of the ruling months prior to 23 his violation of rule 8(a) in this instant action.
24

25 Concurrent with his abusive legal action, Sweigert engages in persistent cyber stalking
26 and harassment including constant unwanted communication via email and various social media
27

28 DEFENDANT'S MEMORANDUM OF LAW IN SUPPORT SANCTIONS PURSUANT TO

platforms including YouTube, X (formerly Twitter) and others. He coordinates a network of individuals who approach and harass Goodman on the streets of New York City and elsewhere. Sweigert has articulated this plan calculated to destroy Goodman's business, disrupt his personal and professional relationships, and extort money from him. Sweigert harassed Goodman's attorney in yet another case, provoking his withdrawal, (See Case 1:20-cv-07269-VEC-OTW Document 102-2). This instant action is only the latest iteration of Sweigert's abusive Lawfare campaign. Like those prior, this matter was brought for an ulterior purpose, in violation of Rule 11(b)(1) to harass Goodman and needlessly expose him to excessive litigation costs.

"The "improper purpose" ground under Rule 11 authorizes a court to impose sanctions when it finds that an action has been brought for some dilatory purpose, to harass an opponent, or to needlessly increase litigation costs. This is an independent ground for the imposition of sanctions. Thus, even where an action is not frivolous, a court may impose sanctions on the ground that the action was brought for some improper purpose."

O'Neil v. Ret. Plan for Salaried Emps. of RKO Gen., Inc., 88 Civ. 8498 (JSM), 1992 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 237, at *1 (S.D.N.Y. Jan. 7, 1992)

Sweigert's filing contains numerous claims he either knows to be false from prior rulings or has otherwise failed to sufficiently verify with regard to truthfulness. His deceptive effort to consolidate another frivolous case against an inactive corporation he knows to be unrelated to his claims was calculated exclusively to increase the cost and complexity of litigation and is another violation of Rule 11, (See se 1:23-cv-06881-JGK Document 33) . "As a general rule, the "central purpose" of a lawsuit must be "to vindicate rights." See In re Kunstler, 914 F.2d 505, 518 (4th Cir. 1990). Even "if a complaint is filed to vindicate rights in court, and also for some other

FRCP RULE 11- 5

1 purpose," sanctions are not appropriate unless the added purpose is "undertaken in bad faith and
2 is . . . so excessive as to eliminate a proper purpose." [*10] Id. In assessing the propriety of 3 filing a complaint to initiate a lawsuit, the court must evaluate the objective reasonableness —
4 rather than the subjective intent — underlying the filing.”

6 Colum. Gas Transmission, LLC v. Haas, No. 22-1504, 2023 U.S. App. LEXIS
7 19300, at *9 (4th Cir. July 27, 2023)

8 Even if the Court determines Sweigert has some right to defend buried deeply in the 9 superfluous pleadings submitted, his actions have been undertaken with excessive bad faith and 10 for an improper purpose, to harass the defendant in violation of FRCP Rule 11(b)(1). His 11 persistent violation of the rules, ethics, and the law rise to such an excessive level of bad faith,
12 sanctions are not only warranted, but they are also necessary to prevent him or future litigants
13 like him from abusing the courts with their own vindictive, persistent Lawfare campaigns.

15 Sweigert further violated FRCP Rule 11(b)(1) when he attempted to sue Multimedia
16 System Design, Inc, DBA Crowdsorce the Truth (“MSDI”). This non-existent, fictional entity
17 was imagined by Sweigert and first presented to the Court in 2020 in a malicious and deceptive
18 effort to bring action against an inactive corporate entity previously owned by Goodman. (See 19 Nat'l Acad. of TV Arts & Scis., Inc. v. Multimedia Sys. Design, No. 20-CV-7269 (VEC),
20 (S.D.N.Y. Feb. 22, 2022) There is no relationship between this corporate entity and the actions
21 taken by Goodman as a natural person that gave rise to Sweigert’s complaints. Sweigert is 22 attempting to reprise his financial assault on Goodman by deceiving the Court in an effort to stop
23 Goodman from mounting a pro se defense. The truth is, there is no such entity as MSDI, and 24 Sweigert knows this. He invented the MSDI name in order to conflate unrelated current 25
26
27

28 DEFENDANT’S MEMORANDUM OF LAW IN SUPPORT SANCTIONS PURSUANT TO

activities of Goodman, a natural person, with the existence of a dormant, unrelated corporate entity previously owned by Goodman that has been inactive for years.

Even if the Court determines that the fictional concoction MSDI, born from Sweigert's imagination, sufficiently identifies an uninvolved, inactive corporation previously owned by Goodman, the Supreme Court has determined that the proper venue to bring action against a corporate litigant is its home jurisdiction. First in Goodyear Dunlop Tires Operations, S.A. v. Brown and then later in Daimler AG v. Bauman the Supreme Court more narrowly defined general and specific jurisdiction with regard to suits brought against corporate defendants.

Sweigert ignores this and seeks to take advantage of universal jurisdiction where a corporation could be sued essentially anywhere it displayed any semblance of doing business or had even a minimal presence. This is precisely what the High Court intended to minimize as it sought to increase judicial efficiency with the ruling. The Supreme Court determined that a corporation could not be "at home" in all jurisdictions, even all in which it conducts business, finding, "A corporation that operates in many places can scarcely be deemed to be at home in all of them."

Daimler AG v. Bauman, 571 U.S. 117, 117, 134 S. Ct. 746, 748 (2014)

In yet another violation of Rule 11(b)(1), Sweigert failed to abide by the Supreme Court's ruling, bringing more frivolous action in an invalid venue for the specific and improper purpose of manipulating the outcome of the case. Sweigert should be denied consolidation of a case brought in an improper venue in violation of Rule 11 and sanctions would be appropriate.

Rule 11(b)(2). Plaintiff violated Rule 11(b)(2) when he defied an existing order from Judge Valerie Caproni and refiled unwarranted claims. Claims in this action pursuant to New York Civil Rights Law §§ 50 & 51 are substantially the same as those already dismissed with

1 prejudice, (See Case 1:18-cv-08653-VEC-SDA ECF No. 381). Judge Caproni previously
2 admonished Sweigert when she dismissed his similar claims stating, “Plaintiff has withdrawn his
3 New York's Civil Rights Law Section 50 and 51. See Letter, Dkt. 380. Accordingly, those claims
4 are hereby DISMISSED with prejudice.” After that, Sweigert attempted to move the Court to 5 reconsider its ruling and grant dismissal without prejudice. In response, Judge Caproni further
6 admonished him stating, “The Court will not tolerate judicial gamesmanship; Mr. Sweigert does 7 not get a judicial mulligan.” This instant action is only his most recent attempt at a judicial 8 mulligan. Sweigert continues the very “judicial gamesmanship” Judge Caproni warned him the 9 Court would not tolerate, (See Case 1:18-cv-08653-VEC-SDA Document 383).

12 In Quadrozzi v. New York, the Court determined, “There are two grounds for 13 sanctions Fed. R. Civ. P. 11: the "frivolous clause" and the "improper purpose clause." The 14 "frivolous clause" of Rule 11 has two subparts: whether the party or attorney has made a
15 reasonable inquiry into the facts, and whether the party or attorney has a made a reasonable
16 inquiry into the law. The "improper purpose clause" provides that a party may not interpose a 17 motion, pleading, or other document for purposes of delay, harassment, or increasing the costs of 18 litigation. As each clause imposes an independent obligation, a violation of either is sufficient to 19 impose Rule 11 sanctions. Similarly, a violation of either subpart of the frivolous clause
20 constitutes a violation of Rule 11.”

22 Quadrozzi v. New York, 127 F.R.D. 63, 66 (S.D.N.Y. 1989)

24 Sweigert knew his NY Civ Rights L §§ 50 – 51 claims were insufficient on evidentiary,
25 factual, and legal bases and had been dismissed with prejudice. He also knows the imagined,
26 fictional corporate entities he has concocted for the purpose of confounding the Court and obstructing its normal processes are not valid entities with legal standing to be sued. Despite this knowledge he proceeded in defiance of Rule 11(b)(2) and should be sanctioned.

Rule 11(b)(3) and (4). Plaintiff attempts to deceive the Court with denials surrounding a filing in the Eastern District of Michigan (“MIED”). In another violation of Rule 11, plaintiff’s brother, co-defendant Webb, filed an action against Cable News Network, Inc (“CNN”) in the MIED on October 31, 2020, (See Case 2:20-cv-12933-GAD-KGA). The rambling complaint failed to form a cognizable claim and offered no reason as to why it was brought in MIED, rather than New York or Atlanta, where CNN is headquartered. Instead, this case appears to have been created expressly to offer Sweigert another opportunity to intervene and involve Goodman, which he attempted, (See Case 2:20-cv-12933-GAD-KGA ECF No. 3). Judge Gershwin Drain denied intervention, and ordered plaintiff Webb to show cause as to why the case should not be dismissed, (See Case 2:20-cv-12933-GAD-KGA ECF No. 10). The response, (See Case 2:20-cv-12933-GAD-KGA ECF No. 12) exhibited unequivocal evidence of forgery. Specifically, the creation date of the document was June 21, 2021, and the filing date was June 18, 2021. This geospatial and temporal impossibility would require the clerks to travel backward in time and cannot be explained. In addition, metadata in the document revealed Richard Loury (“Loury”) as the author. (EXHIBIT A)

Loury is a clerk in MIED and not an attorney. Loury has no authority to author documents on behalf of litigants. Detroit Police Department (“DPD”) Sargent, Detective Joiell Cobb Sanders (“Sgt. Sanders”) met with Goodman and agreed the evidence proved beyond a doubt the document was forged, and that Loury was the most likely suspect. She lamented that any criminal activity inside the U.S. District Courthouse could not be addressed by DPD as it

1 was federal jurisdiction. No report was filed, and no investigation was conducted. Goodman has
 2 also shared this evidence with Special Agent Kenneth Engberg (“SA Engberg”) of the Detroit
 3 FBI. SA Engberg also agreed the evidence indicated forgery and that Loury was the most likely 4 suspect, but he failed to act and refused to provide further commentary on the matter.

6 In violation of Rule 11(b)(3), Sweigert made several factual contentions that lack
 7 evidentiary support. Specifically, he claims Goodman has made false and defamatory claims
 8 about the forged document filed in MIED. This violates Rule 11(b)(3) because Plaintiff knows
 9 he will fail to prove the date on the document is legitimate or that it was filed by Webb.
 10

11 In response to Covid-19, in or around August 2020, MIED implemented a Pro Se
 12 Document Upload portal, (<https://www.mied.uscourts.gov/index.cfm?pagefunction=ProSeDocs>).
 13 The web page allows pro se litigants to file pleadings as PDF documents directly with the clerks
 14 who then enter the filings on the ECF docket. The MIED web site provides filers with an email
 15 receipt when they make any submission. Both Sweigert and Webb have filed numerous actions
 16 in multiple U.S. District Courts in which they both separately and jointly insist Goodman has 17 lied in an effort to smear them. Neither party has attempted to explain the evidence which 18 Goodman, Sgt. Sanders and SA Engberg all agree indicates criminal forgery. No filing receipt
 19 has been presented. Sweigert should be sanctioned pursuant to Rule 11(b)(3) for making factual
 20 contentions regarding ECF No. 12 that have no evidentiary support. Sweigert should be 21 compelled to provide evidence of filing, or else be sanctioned pursuant to FRCP Rule 11(b)(3).

24 Even if the Court disagrees and denies Rule 11 sanctions, alternately Sweigert and Webb
 25 should be compelled to appear in person at an evidentiary hearing to present the emailed receipt
 26 from the MIED pro se filing web site. In the two years since Goodman first raised this evidence, multiple frivolous suits have emerged, (See Case 2:22-cv-10002-GAD-KGA, and Case 1:22-cv-02788-LGS-BCM) but the pro se filing receipt has not. Failure to produce this receipt is additional evidence that Loury assisted Webb and Sweigert in filing this forged document.

“A misrepresentation regarding a plaintiff’s previous litigation history can warrant dismissal. See Sheils v. Jordan, No. 10-CV-6516L, 2014 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 55683, 2014 WL 1600445, at *2 (W.D.N.Y. Apr. 21, 2014) (“Such a failure to disclose prior litigation history, especially by such an obviously practiced (if unsuccessful) litigant, ‘is an inexcusable misrepresentation to the Court’ warranting dismissal under Rule 11 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.” (quoting Bell v. Lasaceli, No. 08-CV-0278, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 32416, 2009 WL 1032857, at *4 (W.D.N.Y. Apr. 15, 2009)); Bell, 2009 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 32416, 2009 WL 1032857, at *4 (“Because Plaintiff has repeatedly misrepresented his litigation history to the Court—a significant one at that—the Court finds that he has violated Fed. R. Civ. P. 11 and, therefore, this action will be dismissed, in the alternative, on that basis.”).

Murray v. Noeth, No. 6:19-CV-6342 EAW, 2023 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 137057, at *10 (W.D.N.Y. Aug. 7, 2023)

II. SANCTIONS SHOULD INCLUDE DISMISSAL WITH PREJUDICE AND A BROAD FILING INJUNCTION AGAINST VEXATIOUS LITIGATION

District courts have “significant discretion in determining what sanction, if any, should be imposed for a violation” of Rule 11. Four Star Fin. Servs., LLC v. Commonwealth Mgmt. Assocs., 166 F. Supp. 2d 805, 809 (S.D.N.Y. 2001). Rule 11 sanctions can include, inter alia, the disposition of claims, application of fees and costs or imposition filing injunctions when appropriate, as in this case. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 11(c)(1). This Court has broad latitude to enjoin

1 vexatious pro se plaintiffs like Sweigert from filing frivolous pleadings without first seeking
2 leave of court. See Polur v. Raffae, 912 F.2d 52, 57 (2d Cir. 1990) (citing 28 U.S.C. § 1651(a)).
3 Under the All Writs Act, 28 U.S.C. § 1651(a), federal courts are empowered to “issue all writs 4 necessary or appropriate in aid of their respective jurisdictions and agreeable to the usages and 5 principles of law.” This includes enjoining vexatious, abusive, and harassing litigants like
6 Sweigert. In re Hartford Textile Corp., 681 F.2d 895, 897 (2d Cir. 1982) (per curiam), cert.
7 denied sub nom., Shuffman v. Hartford Textile Corp., 459 U.S. 1206 (1983) (“The equity power
8 of a court to give injunctive relief against vexatious litigation is an ancient one which has been 9 codified in the All Writs Statute.”); In re Martin-Trigona, 737 F.2d at 1262 (affirming
10 imposition of pre-filing injunction against pro se plaintiff); Kane v. City of New York, 468 F.
11 Supp. 586, 590 (S.D.N.Y. 1979) (“[W]hen it becomes clear that the courts are being used as a 12 vehicle of harassment by a ‘knowledgeable and articulate experienced pro se litigant’ who 13 asserts the same claims repeatedly in slightly altered guise, the issuance of an injunction is 14 warranted.”)

16
17
18 MUKA v. HANCOCK, ESTABROOK, 120 Misc. 2d 146, 147 (N.Y. Sup. Ct. 1983)

19 Courts in the Second Circuit have considered five factors in determining if pre-filing
20 injunction is warranted:

- 21 (1) the litigant’s history of litigation and whether it entailed vexatious, harassing,
22 or duplicative lawsuits;
- 23 (2) whether the litigant has an objective good faith expectation of prevailing;
- 24 (3) whether the litigant is represented by counsel;
- 25
- 26
- 27

28 DEFENDANT’S MEMORANDUM OF LAW IN SUPPORT SANCTIONS PURSUANT TO
FRCP RULE 11- 12

1 (4) whether the litigant has caused needless expense to other parties or an
2 unnecessary burden on the courts and their personnel; and

3 (5) whether other sanctions would be adequate to protect the courts and other 4 parties.

6 Pandozy v. Segan, 518 F. Supp. 2d 550, 558 (S.D.N.Y. 2007), aff'd, 340 F. App'x 723
7 (2d Cir. 2009) (citing Safir v. U.S. Lines, Inc., 792 F.2d 19, 24 (2d Cir.1986)

8 In this case, each of these factors weigh in favor of enjoining Sweigert from filing: (a)
9 any additional documents on the docket for this case relating to Goodman or any corporation
10 previously owned by Goodman; (b) any action against any inactive corporation previously 11 owned by Goodman; and (c) any new pro se action against Goodman, any member of 12 Goodman's immediate family, or any legal entity owned by Goodman in any federal district
13 court without first obtaining leave of that court. See In re Martin- Trigona, 737 F.2d at 1262
14 (affirming pre-filing injunction encompassing all federal district courts).
15

17 Factor One

18 Sweigert has an extensive record of initiating frivolous legal action and asserting false,
19 unsubstantiated claims against Goodman dating back to 2017, in an ongoing and continuous 20 manner up to and including today. See, Steele et al v. Goodman et al, 3:17-cv-00601-MHL,
21 (E.D.V.A. Sept. 1, 2017), Sweigert v. Goodman, 18-CV-8653, (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 21, 2019), Nat'l
22 Acad. of TV Arts & Scis., Inc. v. Multimedia Sys. Design, No. 20-CV-7269 (VEC), (S.D.N.Y.
23 Sept. 4, 2020), Sweigert v Cable News Network, Inc, 2:20-cv-12933-GAD-KGA (M.I.E.D. Oct.
24 31, 2020), Sweigert v. Goodman, 1:22-cv-02788-LGS-BCM (M.I.E.D. Jan. 3, 2022), Sweigert v.

26
27

28 DEFENDANT'S MEMORANDUM OF LAW IN SUPPORT SANCTIONS PURSUANT TO
FRCP RULE 11- 13

1 Sweigert v. Multimedia System Design, Inc. et al, 1:23-cv-06881-JGK (M.I.E.D. Nov. 8, 2022),
2 Sweigert v. Goodman et al, 23-cv-05875-JGK (S.D.N.Y. Jul. 4, 2023), [appeals omitted in the
3 interest of efficiency]. Sweigert is a pathological, serial Lawfare practitioner and a vexatious
4 litigant who must be enjoined from continuing this practice in the interest of justice.

6 Instances like this require courts to exercise their power “to protect the public, including
7 litigants . . . from the depredations of those . . . who abuse the process of the Courts to harass and 8 annoy others with meritless, frivolous, vexatious or repetitive” suits. In Re Hartford, 659 F.2d at 9 305. See also In re Martin-Trigona, 737 F.2d at 1261–62 (noting that permitting vexatious pro se
10 litigants to act “with impunity” could “bring the entire system of justice to a halt, thus depriving 11 all other litigants of their right to an expeditious adjudication of good faith federal claims,” and 12 explaining that courts thus act “not only as an arbiter of a dispute between private parties but also 13 in defense of the means necessary to carry out our constitutional function.”). Sweigert’s ongoing 14 and continuous harassment and abusive litigation tactics have already clogged the dockets of 15 numerous district courts causing excessive burden and undue expense to Goodman while 16 unnecessarily taxing the resources of an already overwhelmed judicial system. “In such 17 circumstances, the power to act against vexatious litigation is clear.” In re Martin-Trigona, 737
18 F.2d at 1262. See also generally Ferguson v. MBank Houston, N.A., 808 F.2d 358, 359-60 (5th 19 Cir. 1986) (“[O]ne acting pro se has no license to harass others, clog the judicial machinery with 20 meritless litigation, and abuse already overloaded court dockets.”).

21 22 23 24 Factor Two

25 With respect to the second factor, Sweigert has already demonstrated disregard for 26 prevailing on his claims by voluntarily withdrawing multiple actions, (See Sweigert v Goodman
27

1 1:18-cv-08653-VEC-SDA ECF No. 380, Sweigert v. Multimedia System Design, Inc. et al, 2:22-
2 cv-10642-GAD-EAS ECF No. 63, and Sweigert v Goodman, Case 1:22-cv-02788-LGS-BCM
3 ECF No. 73). Sweigert voluntarily withdrew his first action against Goodman on the eve of trial
4 and then made a pattern of voluntarily dismissing cases after the desired punishment had been
5 inflicted. In Sweigert v. Multimedia System Design, Inc. et al., (2:22-cv-10642-GAD-EAS), the 6 same day Goodman hired local counsel, Sweigert withdrew upon learning the retainer fee had 7 been paid. Repetition of this pattern demonstrates Sweigert's primary concern is wasting
8 Goodman's time and money rather than prevailing in court on the merits of his claims.

10 Factor Three

11 In most instances, a plaintiff's pro se status weighs against issuing a pre-filing injunction.
12 Sweigert however, has been a Lawfare practitioner and avid pro se plaintiff for decades. After 13 termination from employment at Electronic Systems Associates, Inc., ("ESA") in November of 14 1991, Sweigert filed a qui tam action under the False Claims Act. 31 U.S.C. §§ 3730-3733,
15 accusing ESA and its CEO, Lemuel Kinney ("Kinney"), through his corporation, of willfully
16 misrepresenting material facts to the government and violating the False Claims Act, See United 17 States ex rel. Sweigert v. Elec. Sys. Assocs., 85 F.3d 630 (6th Cir. 1996).

19 A magistrate judge recommended dismissing the complaint for failure to comply with 20 procedural requirements. Sweigert did not serve a copy of the complaint on the government and 21 failed to file a copy en camera as required. Sweigert demonstrated less interest in the outcome of 22 the qui tam action than he did in tormenting Lemuel, perhaps in retaliation for being fired.
23 Sweigert did not object to the report and recommendation and so the complaint was dismissed.
26

Over two years later, Sweigert filed two motions for relief from that judgment pursuant to FRCP Rule 60(b)(6), another tactic he has employed recently, (See Sweigert v Goodman 1:18-cv-08653-VEC-SDA ECF No. 383). The magistrate judge recommended denying Sweigert's motions, twice in two reports, one filed June 21, 1995, another on July 17, 1995. The second report unequivocally stated that objections were due on August 3, 1995. The Court noted that Sweigert filed no objections to the final report, notwithstanding the magistrate judge's notice that failure to do so would forfeit all rights on appeal pursuant to United States v. Walters, 638 F.2d 947 (6th Cir. 1981), and under Thomas v. Arn, 474 U.S. 140 (1985). Adopting the report, the district court denied Sweigert's 60(b)(6) motions. Sweigert then filed an appeal from that order, asserting the same claims presented to the district court in support of his qui tam suit. The Sixth Circuit affirmed the district court's order denying Sweigert's motions for Rule 60(b) relief. The qui tam failed to benefit Sweigert, but years of litigation put Kinney and ESA into financial ruin.

Sweigert has persistently attempted to implicate Goodman through "MSDI" a deceptive corporate entity devised by Sweigert. This demonstrates a pattern established with Kinney and ESA. By forcing Lawfare targets to retain counsel to represent a corporate defendant, Sweigert ensures the financial destruction of his victims. Attempts to intervene, frivolous bar complaints, cyber stalking and harassment are all weapons in his Lawfare arsenal. Ceaseless frivolous filings compel defendants to respond while they suffer financially devastating costs of litigation.

Sweigert has publicly announced his intention to sue Goodman for the rest of his life. If the Court allows this instant action to proceed, it will be helping him to fulfill that promise.

Sweigert has turned frivolous litigation into his full-time occupation. As cited herein, courts

1 routinely impose injunctions on pro se litigants like Sweigert to prevent them from abusive
2 filings against the same defendants repeatedly without first seeking leave or retaining counsel.

3 Factor Five

5 In considering some lesser sanction, the Court must decide what might adequately
6 “protect the courts and other parties,” from Sweigert’s serial Lawfare assaults. As of 2023,
7 Sweigert has spent nearly ten percent of his own lifetime pursuing Goodman with frivolous
8 litigation that he displays no interest in taking to trial even when granted the opportunity. It is 9 difficult to conceive a clearer demonstration of abusive litigation practices than those persistently
10 engaged in by Sweigert. Here, the only suitable remedy is a broad pre-suit filing injunction. In 11 similar circumstances, the Second Circuit has affirmed similar remedies when appropriate. See,
12 e.g., In re Martin- Trigona, 737 F.2d at 1262 (affirming injunction preventing plaintiff from 13 bringing new actions “in all federal district courts”). District courts have “an obligation to protect 14 and preserve the sound and orderly administration of justice throughout [the] system.” Id. To that 15 end, they “need not wait until a vexatious litigant inundates each federal district court with 16 meritless actions to condition access to that court upon a demonstration of good faith.” Id. In 17 other similar cases courts have imposed remedies against repeat vexatious litigants like Sweigert.
18 See, e.g., Urban v. United Nations, 768 F.2d 1497, 1500 (D.C. Cir. 1985) (issuing nationwide
19 filing injunction against pro se litigant); Castro v. United States, 775 F.2d. 399, 408-10 (1st Cir.
20 1985) (enjoining plaintiff from ever filing another document in federal court against the United 21 States pertaining to a certain subject matter), abrogated on other grounds; Hackney v. Lehrer
22 McGovern Bovis of Pa., No. 97-cv-1015, 1997 WL 214846, at *3-*4 (E.D. Pa. Apr. 25, 1997)
23 (enjoining plaintiff from filing complaints in any court concerning subject matter at issue
26
27

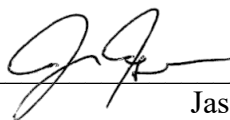

“without first seeking authorization of the court in which the plaintiff seeks to file” and requiring plaintiff to “attach to any such complaint a copy of this order” issuing the injunction). There is more than adequate basis for this Court to sanction Sweigert, having “demonstrated a disturbing pattern of filing frivolous lawsuits.” Schwartz v. Nordstrom, Inc., No. 94-cv-1005, 1994 WL 584676, at *4 (S.D.N.Y. Oct. 25, 1994). Sweigert’s conduct is expressly calculated to subject Goodman to undue burden and persistent harassment with no regard for the judicial resources expended. Simply put, Sweigert is a serial Lawfare practitioner and malicious litigant who must be stopped, or he will, as promised, continue to sue Goodman for the rest of his life.

CONCLUSION

For the reasons set forth herein, the Plaintiff Sweigert should be sanctioned, and this case should be dismissed with prejudice sua sponte. Sweigert should be designating as a vexatious litigant and enjoined from future filings against Goodman or in any other suitable manner as determined by the Court.
